Daily Theme: Physical Wellbeing

Quote: “The five senses are the ministers of the soul.” Leonardo da Vinci

Exercise: Our physical senses of sight, sound, smell, taste, and touch, are a gift breathing life into our tired and worn down spirits. They provide a vital source of comfort, inspiration, and joy. Pay close attention appreciating the gift of your senses today, whether taking in the beauty of a landscape, the sound of morning birds or your favorite music, the smell of your garden or cookies baking, the taste of fresh fruit, the touch of a loved one or the warmth of a fire. Your recognition and gratitude for your senses will wash over you and bring healing.

Daily Theme: Mental Wellbeing

Quote: "With intellectual curiosity the world will always be full of magic and wonder."

Marjorie Pay Hinckley

Exercise: One of the most overlooked secrets to happiness is cultivating our innate sense of curiosity. Curiosity opens a doorway to unfamiliar experiences, laying the groundwork to experience the joy of discovery. Exercise curiosity intentionally in your daily experiences, transforming routine with attention to seeing a different view. Keep an open mind and try something new. Ask questions. Learn something new, or learn something new about someone. Even those we think we know have hidden treasures if we only inquire. Today loose yourself in the energy and wonder of curiosity.

Daily Theme: Emotional Wellbeing

Quote “The walls we build around us to keep the sadness out also keeps out the joy” Jim Rohn

Exercise: Listen to the emotions that surface, notice and name them. Denying, resisting or holding on to your feelings will result in suffering. When we are able to observe, experience, and accept what we feel, we expand our capacity for connection and wise action. So take some time today to notice and name how you may feel. Observe. What contributed to this feeling arising? Did you resist the feeling? Did you try to hold on to it? Did you express it in some way? Did you find it passed like a cloud by taking that slow and conscious breath? What did you learn about yourself from paying attention to your feelings today?

Daily Theme: Behavioral Wellness

Quote: “ The essence of pleasure is spontaneity”

Germaine Greer

Exercise: Spontaneity can often be lost meeting the many demands and tasks of your daily life. Spontaneity is the risk of following your heart, taking a chance, doing something new. Listen to your spark of spontaneity. Follow its energy today. Do something you want to do, say something you want to say, try something new, follow your bliss, shake up the routine and wake up to the pleasure of letting yourself go.

Daily Theme: Social Connection

Quote: “Too often we underestimate the power of a touch, a smile, a kind word, a listening ear, an honest compliment, or the smallest act of caring, all of which have the potential to turn a life around.” Leo Buscaglia

Exercise: In the routine and taxing demands of Caregiving it is easy to lose sight of the real significance of your individual value and importance in the world. Every time you share your affection, your smile, your care, your efforts, and your gifts, you are contributing your unique lasting and vital influence in the lives of others and in the world. Today remember not to lose sight that what you give is powerful. Take some time to reflect, to reminisce, and to recognize all the many small efforts you have made to live up to your values and contribute to the world around you. Remembering will reinforce your great significance to yourself and to us all.

Daily Theme: Seek Meaning

Quote: “Even in darkness it is possible to create light.” Elie Wiesel

Exercise: Out of the darkness of heartache and struggle is born the opportunity for human transformation. While your struggles have torn you down, enduring them has made you strong. In your moments of darkness your truest character shines and your connection to others is forged. How have you made light from your darkness? What loving bonds have you formed when you have shared a struggle with another? How have your heartaches and challenges been transformed into a gift, for you and to those your life has touched? Today reflect on the light.

Daily Theme: Meditation/Visualization

Quote: "Attention to the human body brings healing and regeneration. Through awareness of the body we remember who we really are." Jack Kornfield
